

THE COINAGE OF HISTRIA FOR SEPTIMIUS SEVERUS AND HIS FAMILY: Addenda et Corrigenda

DILYANA BOTEVA (University of Sofia)

The paper had already been sent to press when I got the chance to visit the Coin Cabinet at Kunsthistorisches Museum in Vienna and to work with its collection*. Some of the Histrian species kept there impose following addenda et corrigenda.

The observe of coin No 28421 represents Septimius Severus with a short beard. This detail indicates an early date of minting which could not be later than A.D. 200. I incline to accept A.D. 198 as the possible dating because of the main features of the imperial portrait.

Here it should be reminded of Geta's coin published in 1917 by L. Ruzicka under No 507-z. Unfortunately one can only read K CEII GETAC.. from the legend on its obverse which was causing some uncertainty at the moment when I was studing the Histrian coinage. Now it seems that this issue was a synchronous with the coins representing Severus with short beard. Thus an additional period of activity of the Histrian mint is definable within A.D. 198. These issues should be connected with the journey to the Balkans undertaken by Caracalla soon after his inauguration because of some military problems for the Empire. His presence in Lower Moesia in 198 is attested with certainty and it is possible that Histria was one of the cities visited by the young augustus.

Consequently the chronology of the Histrian coinage under Septimius Severus and his family could be illustrated as follows:

year	coinage
193
194
195
196
197
198	coins for Severus, Domna, Caracalla-aug. and Geta-caes. without value marks of their denomination
199
200

* I would like to express my deepest gratitude to Prof. Dr. G. Dembski (Vienna) who was so kind to let me work with the coins I was interested in, and to Dr. Fr. de Callatay (Bruxelles) for his support and cooperation.
